

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Robert Kneisley began his financial services career in 1972. He is a native Toledoan and a graduate of the University of Toledo. He is a Charter Member of Authors on the Net and author of "The Indicator!" and "Wall Street Casino". He was a Charter Member of the Toledo Chapter of the International Association of Financial Planners and is a Pension Consultant accredited by the National Institute of Pension Administrators. He has participated in numerous panel discussions and generated many newspaper and magazine articles, audio tapes and CD's concerning financial matters. He has been published in Financial Planning magazine, the Advisor Network and various trade publications.

Mr. Kneisley is a member in good standing of the National Institute of Pension Administrators, the Profit Sharing Council of America and founder of the Winning Investment Network. Early on, Bob recognized the need for education in support of efficient investing and independent, fee-only consulting. He established the Indicator Advisory Corporation in 1986 to meet the demand for a research oriented, client-centric advisory service. His firm serves as a consultant to the client, - not some distant corporation. The firm's aim is to offer the most academically advanced, competitive, institutional quality products and services to his corporate, pension and individual investors.
